Diversity Fair potluck returns

By BOB KREKORIAN

NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

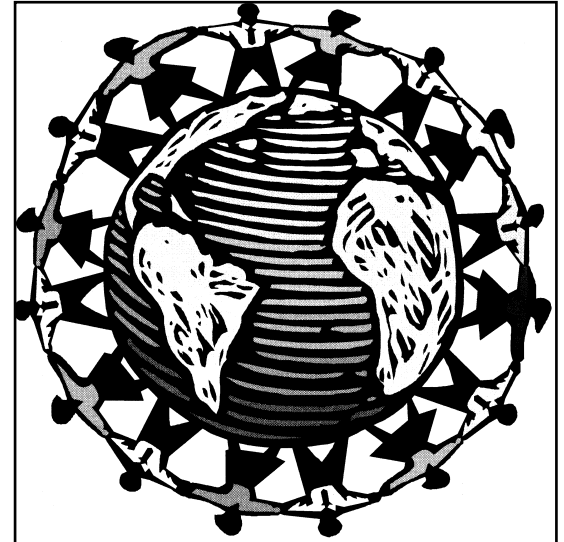

Naval Station (NAVSTA) Newport and its tenant commands and activities will celebrate diversity in the workplace at the second annual Diversity Day potluck picnic on July 22, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m., on the patio behind Building 690.

The multi-cultural celebration will feature poster displays highlighting the accomplishments of various ethnic groups. The picnic will provide an opportunity for all military and civilian employees from NAVSTA Newport and its tenant commands and activities to gather and share their ethnic cuisines and cultures.

Volunteers are needed to contribute food and are encouraged to display items of native dress, art, and other cultural memorabilia that reflect an ethnic heritage.

NAVSTA Newport's Equal Employment Opportunity Advisory Committee is sponsoring the event.

Department of Defense civilian employees and military who would like to contribute should contact Roy Snow, Personnel Support

Thunderbirds to lead Air Show

By RICHARD ALEXANDER

Navalog editor

NORTH KINGSTOWN — The U.S. Air Force flight demonstration team, the Thunderbirds, will perform this weekend, Saturday and Sunday, at the annual Rhode Island National Guard Air Show and Open House.

The Thunderbirds pilots today will visit hospitalized veterans at the Veterans Administration Medical Center in Providence, for the second time in three years.

The Air Show will be at Quonset Air National Guard Base, Quonset Point, and gates will open at 9 a.m. each day.

The Thunderbirds fly the Lockheed Martin F-16 Fighting Falcon.

Other highlights of the popular show that draws thousands of spectators include the wave jet power tractor trailer truck. A $5 parking fee is suggested and proceeds will go to Hasbro Children's Hospital.

Navy Secretary fears U.S. slow to accept 'new world'

By RICHARD ALEXANDER
Navalog editor

The Secretary of the Navy is concerned that the American people have not yet "transitioned" into the post-Sept. 11 world, and realize there is a long haul ahead against terrorism.

Gordon England was the keynote speaker at the 2004 Current Strategy Forum at the Naval War College (NWC) last Tuesday. It was titled, "The Strategic Dilemmas of Global Leadership: The United States, Maritime Power, and the Future International Security Environment."

England reflected back to President Roosevelt who nudged the United States into supporting the war in Europe in the 1940s to protecting liberty and freedom in the world. In the 1950s there were many Americans against going into Korea, but the free world decided to stand up against communism.

He said it took 40 years to defeat communism, ending with the symbolic fall of the Berlin Wall during President Reagan's presidency. It could take 40 years to defeat terrorism.

"That was fascism and communism and now we're into our third 'ism,'" he said. "However long it takes, you have to do this. We have to win this war against terrorism."

England said morale among the American men and women on the front lines in Iraq and Afghanistan is high, and even those who return wounded and maimed are proud of their service to country. They would rather fight terror overseas than in their home towns, he said.

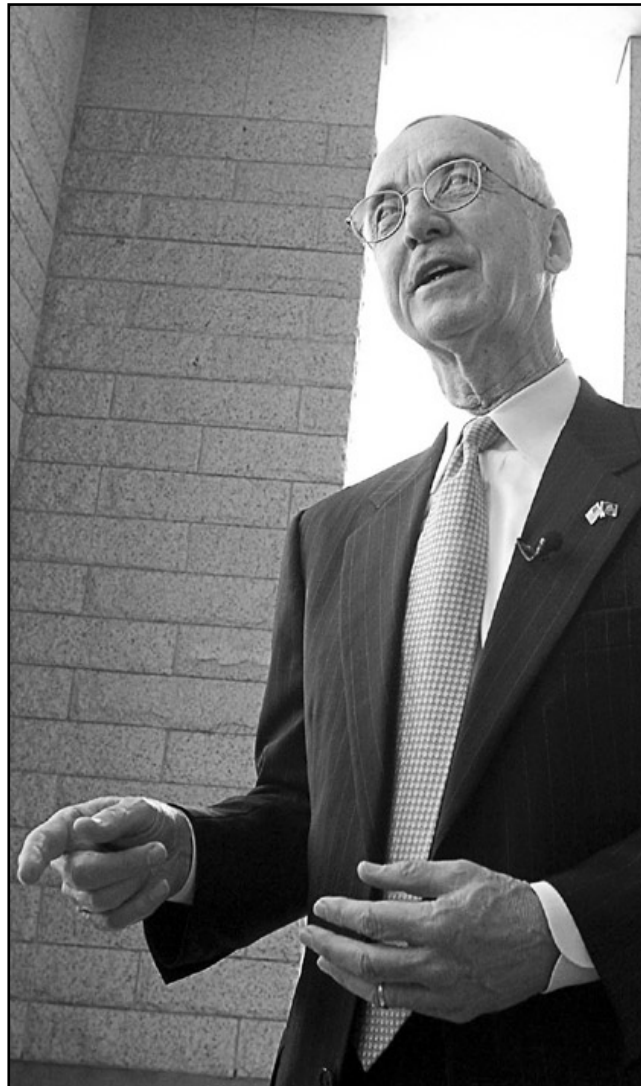

He said the national media consistently reports on the latest car bombings and suicide bombings, but neglects what's working in Iraq.

International oil tankers are coming and going from terminals in the Arabian Gulf, Iraqi concrete and phosphate plants are up and running, and electricity is being restored, he said.

England went through a checklist of what's working right in the Navy.

"The Navy is well suited for this type of war," he said. There is a relationship among the navies around the world. The 55 CNOs who were at the NWC last year for the Seapower Symposium all have a common interest in open sea lanes, countering piracy, procuring shore patrol craft, saving lives at sea, and being adaptable to changing demands, he said.

Besides the working relationship between the CNO and the Commandant of the Marine Corps, programs such as Sea-Basing, Sea Shield, Sea NAVSEA, Page 13

Naval War College graduates 819 today

By NWC Public Affairs Office

Dr. Richard Haass, President of the Council on Foreign Relations, will address the graduates of the Naval War College (NWC) during ceremonies today at 10 a.m. on Dewey Field.

Haass previously served as Director of Policy Planning for the Department of State, where he was a principal adviser to Secretary of State Colin Powell on a broad range of foreign policy concerns.

The 2004 NWC graduating class represents 819 officers from the U.S. Navy, U.S. Marine Corps, U.S. Air Force, U.S. Army, the U.S. Coast Guard and civilians from various government agencies. Many graduates will take high level assignments in command of ships or squadrons, or as members of strategic planning staffs.

The students completed a rigorous academic curriculum, which consisted of three trimesters: Strategy and Policy, Joint Military Operations, and National Security Decision Making. Along with these core subjects, students were also challenged with elective courses.

The Naval War College curriculum features seminar-based course work which allows for invigorating debates and in-depth discussions on case studies.

Graduates receive Master of Arts degrees in National Security and Strategic Studies as accredited by the New England Association of Schools and Colleges.

International students representing over 70 countries will also graduate and receive Naval War College diplomas.

The Robert E. Bateman International Prize Essay Award and the Capt. Walter B. Woodson, Jr., Academic Memorial Prize will be awarded to retired Rear Adm. Joseph C. Strasser, Executive Director, Naval War College Foundation.

The McGinnis Family Award for Outstanding Performance in Nonresident Education will be awarded to retired Capt. Robert Turpin, USNR.

Chiropractic Kids have an unfair advantage

D. Gordon Gibson, DC

As a parent, I am delighted in the advantages I have been able to give my children. And as a chiropractor, I have been equally delighted to be able to afford those same advantages to the children of my patients. I am referring, of course, to watching all of these children grow and develop as they should mentally, physically and socially without the shackles of a depressed nervous system.

Commissary awards scholarships

By DeCA Corporate Communications

FORT LEE, Va. — Mom and dad were right when they said, “Money doesn’t grow on trees.”

But thanks to the Scholarships for Military Children program, it’s just as free!

Worldwide, 500 diligent students are receiving $1,500 scholarships to apply toward college tuition this fall.

The local winners announced by John T. Blythe Sr., store director at Naval Station Newport’s Commissary, are: Courtney L. Wakem of Tiverton, R.I., and Bryan S.

Fennessey of East Greenwich, R.I.

“We’re thrilled to report that the scholarship program is an enormous success in helping military families defray the costs of education,” said

NUWC accents diversity in its workforce

By JOY CHRISTMAS

NAVSTA Public Affairs Staff

MIDDLETOWN — Although separated by tables of ethnicity, everyone gathered in Building 80 at the Naval Undersea Warfare Center's (NUWC) Building 80 was united for a common purpose — to celebrate, educate and share the unique diversity of the workforce.

The 18th annual International Day, coordinated by the Equal Employment Opportunity Office, took place June 8. Fourteen cultures were represented, offering food, drink, music, dance and dress from their countries of origin.

Ernest William fills cups with tabouli at the Lebanese foods table.

In a welcoming message in the printed program, Capt. John Mickey, Commander, NUWC Division Newport, encouraged all to indulge in new culture and recognize the importance of diversity and its contribution to the strength of the NUWC team.

The festivities began with a Native American prayer recited by Blue Eagle and translated in English by Waabu (Crazy Wind).

"It gives thanks for creation of life, family, food and all we receive everyday," said Blue Eagle, attached to the Naval Station Newport Public Works Department.

Representing Africa, Sheila Jones in Information Systems Management, and Cheryl Robinson in the Torpedo Systems Department, served cornbread and beans and rice, while Eleanor Keys, a noted local African-American historian, exhibited pictures, books and other writings prominent in African-Americans history.

"It's important for people to understand our culture and our proud and rich history," said Jones. The population is a melting pot of wealth, from African, Jamaican, Hispanic and other ancestry, she said.

In addition to Africa and Native America, other countries represented included Germany, Greece, India, Israel, Italy, Japan, Lebanon, Poland, Portugal, Puerto Rico, Taiwan and Vietnam.

Garbed in her native Polish dress, Malgorzata Tabak and her daughter Magdalena, 4, listened while her husband, Stefan Tabak, also in cultural attire, strummed a Polish folk song on his violin.

"This is great," said Mrs. Tabak, whose family also sponsors international students attending the Naval War College. "It's nice to see everyone come out to share the food and culture of their native countries."

Sampling various foods and listening to the entertainment, Toni Carvalho, said she loves international foods and learning about different countries. International Day offered just that.

"We know each other's professional skills, said Carvalho, who works in the Payload and Launcher Division. "But this is an opportunity to get to know others as a person...what makes them...them."

The Brass Quintet from Navy Band Northeast participated, representing America with American patriotic and folk music. Musician Second Class Daniel Bethel had an opportunity to take in other cultures in between sets.

"This is a wonderful experience. It allows people who have never gone overseas to experience the tip of the iceberg of various cultures," said Bethel. "I really enjoyed the German food."

A computer engineer from Puerto Rico, Glenda Leon, enthusiastically welcomed all to taste the foods and learn the history of her native country.

"This is my culture, I love it and want to share it," said Leon. "Perceptions of Puerto Rico and its people are not always the best. "I want them to see what they don't know. The culture is precious."

Sampling the foods from various cultural tables, summer intern Darcie Ouellette, said International Day is both delicious and educational.

"It's always interesting to learn about other cultures," said the rising junior who attends Salve Regina University. "Today we got to see, hear and taste."

Navy skipper Oard takes 4th in Shields Class races

ON NARRAGANSETT BAY — On the last beat to weather, left side, Navy skipper Ron Oard in Boat 164 jumped to fourth overall position during the Wednesday Night Racing Series, June 9.

It was a great night on the Shields race course, and a fantastic showing by the Navy boats.

Raging current, huge shifts, and four of the tightest mark roundings of the season made this event the most competitive race so far.

Burnham and Baer (Boat 107) punched off the line, got free of the fleet, and never looked back.

Though Cellers and Bundy (Boat 224) fought hard to take the lead, 107 legged out on the first down-wind run and soon became a spectator of the race behind.

At the first weather mark, several boats over-stood and reached down onto a beating fleet.

The ensuing rounding compressed the top 10 boats as they headed down wind.

Hugging the shoreline, the first pack fought for the outside to get clean air and defend against the other half of the fleet.

By the first leeward mark, over 15 boats had compounded themselves into an impressive pinwheel.

Places had been exchanged by the time the fleet hit the top of the course for the second time, but the last down-wind leg remained dramatic.

Again, boats compressed at the leeward mark - fighting for the inside position.

Order of finish for the Navy boats are as follows:

17th, Boat 163, Bernie Patterson of Middletown

19th, Boat 29, Harold Belson of Portsmouth

21st, Boat 1, Dean Schofield of Holliston, Mass.

22nd, Boat 14, Col. Chuck Rushworth, Newport

The Seaview Bowling Center, Building 656, is closed for June, July and August.

Youth/special fitness activities

(Gym 109, 841-3154)

• Youth fitness program: Eligible youth wishing to utilize Morale, Welfare and Recreation Department fitness facilities (Gym 109 and FITNESS Plus) are required to take a mandatory resistance and aerobics training class prior to entering the facilities during the designated times.

This class is required for youth ages 10 to 15, and is also available for 16 and 17-year-olds that may also choose to participate in the fitness assessment program instead.

The Youth Fitness Class is available on an individual basis by pre-registering at Gym 109 or FITNESS Plus in Building 355. Parents are required to be in the building where the course is being held during all class sessions.

Complete details on this program and youth fitness policies are available at Gym 109. Call 841-7196 for information or to pre-register.

Scholars

Defense Commissary Agency Director Maj. Gen. Michael P. Wiedemer. "We're proud to be associated with a program that has awarded more than $3 million to nearly 2,000 students since its inception in 2001."

Scholarship Managers, a professional scholarship firm, selects the winners based on academic merit, participation in extracurricular and volunteer activities, and the quality of their essays. Recipients are notified by letter. The full list of scholarship recipients and sponsoring business partners is available online at: <http://www.militaryscholar.org>.

A record-breaking 7,000 students applied to the program for 2004. Only the winners are officially notified of their status (by letter) to ensure all possible funds go toward scholarships.

According to Edna Hoogewind,

DeCA's program liaison, the grade point average of the scholarship recipients is 3.8 - 3.9, and nearly all are members of the National Honor Society, an organization that recognizes students who demonstrate academic excellence, leadership, character and a willingness to serve others.

The Scholarships for Military Children program is funded by the manufacturers and suppliers that support commissaries worldwide and is administered by Fisher House Foundation, a nonprofit organization responsible for building comfort homes near military medical centers.

The foundation bears all costs of the program so that every dollar donated goes for scholarships. The general public can also donate to the program through the military scholar Web site.

Enterprise and Sea Warrior are either crucial to, or effective in, the war against terrorism.

There are improvements in medical response at the front lines, he said. The wounded get from the battlefields to the military hospital in Germany in less than 24 hours. Better body armor, helmets and translating equipment is being delivered to the Marines.

"Logistics is also working," he said. "We learned a lot from Desert Storm. Someone described our logistics operation like "a moving WAL-MART where Christmas comes randomly."

England, who oversees an annual budget of $110 billion and more than 800,000 personnel, said unfortunately much has gone to manpower, and equipment maintenance and repair, instead of acquisition and platforms.

He said 60 percent of the budget is for personnel, active duty and retired. "There is less and less money for recapitalization."

England announced the Pentagon will tap the military thinkers at the War College, and those at other senior level military colleges, to help solve problems and submit new ideas to fight terrorism.

England also commended Rear Adm. Ronald Route, President of the Naval War College, for being selected for his third star and assignment as the next Inspector General.

Navy-wide news

Navy involved in Reagan rites

WASHINGTON (NNS) — More than 150 Sailors from the Navy Ceremonial Honor Guard participated in former President Ronald Reagan's funeral ceremonies held in Washington D.C., and Simi Valley, Calif., June 11.

"It is a great honor to be a part of his funeral," said Chief Machinist's Mate Alton Hainsworth, a member of the Ceremonial Guard who grew up during Reagan's presidency. "He was a great leader that helped our country."

Reagan died June 5 after a decade-long battle with Alzheimer's disease. He was 93.

Twenty-six members of the Ceremonial Honor Guard's HAWK team were flown to California to participate in the public viewing held at the Ronald Reagan Presidential Library in Simi Valley earlier last week.

Reagan was flown to the U.S. Capitol by a special airlift mission on board a U.S. Air Force 747 aircraft for the first state funeral ceremony in Washington, D.C., since former President Lyndon B. Johnson's in 1973.

The Honor Guard was well prepared thanks to something they are used to—rehearsal.

"Our guys knew what to do," said Lt. Andy Wattula, operation's officer for the Ceremonial Honor Guard, "because we've been practicing for state funerals for years."

Upon arrival at Andrews Air Force Base, the Guard's FAL-

CON team transferred Reagan's casket to the awaiting hearse.

Reagan's widow, former First Lady Nancy, escorted by Commanding General, U.S. Army Military District of Washington, D.C., Maj. Gen. Galen B. Jackman, watched the transfer solemnly as the Air Force Band played a subdued "Hail to the Chief."

The police-escorted motorcade delivered the casket to a horse-drawn U.S. Army caisson near the White House. The Guard's Team PEACOCK, comprised of 99 Sailors, participated in Reagan's funeral procession from Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol's Rotunda.

Members of the Ceremonial Honor Guard continued to stand watch over Reagan's body until it was flown back to California for burial following Friday's funeral ceremony at the National Cathedral in Washington, D.C.

Reagan's casket was returned to Simi Valley, Calif., following the memorial service at the National Cathedral June 11, where a private burial ceremony for family and friends was held on the presidential library grounds. The Navy's Ceremonial Honor Guard participated in the private funeral.

The Navy's Ceremonial Honor Guard is stationed in Washington D.C. It is a two-year assignment for Sailors newly graduated from the Navy's boot camp at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

U.S. theme parks offer discounts

MILLINGTON, Tenn. (NNS) — Sailors and their families can take advantage of free or discounted tickets to several world-renowned theme parks this summer.

Busch Entertainment Corporation, the family entertainment subsidiary of Anheuser-Busch, is offering substantially discounted tickets to six of the company's theme parks through a program called "Military Appreciation Days."

Additionally, as part of their "Operation Homecoming" program, Busch Entertainment Corporation is offering a free admission to one of the company's SeaWorld, Busch Gardens or Sesame Place parks for military personnel who are returning from overseas service and were unable to participate in last year's Operation Salute program.

"Sailors and their families are encouraged to check with their local ITT office for details on the promotions, and for additional travel products, such as hotels and airline discounts, as well as discounts on additional leisure activities or special events while they're at the theme parks," said Karen Fritz, program manager for Navy Morale, Welfare and Recreation's (MWR) Information, Tickets and Travel (ITT) Section.

Busch Entertainment Corporation's Military Appreciation Days and Operation Homecoming programs run through Veterans Day, Nov. 11.
